

DESPERATE HOUSECAT AJAX A886452

Do you often feel lonely when you go to the bathroom? Do you wish you had a feline companion to keep you company? Then AJAX is the right boy for you! This sweet, handsome little weirdo comes running when he hears someone in the bathroom. Who knows why, but he runs in, throws himself on the ground, and asks for belly rubs. And how can anyone say no to that? AJAX has entropion, a condition in which his eyelids curl in, and which makes his eyes more sensitive. He can appear a bit skittish, since he doesn't always see well. For this reason, he should be an indoor only cat. His entropion will be fixed with a minor surgery at AAC before he is adopted. AJAX is a little shy at first, but he opens up with patience and love (he was abandoned before arriving at AAC, so he's rebuilding trust in humans). AJAX enjoys sitting in windows and watching the squirrels, and will come snuggle with you on his own terms. He is social and likes spending time with his people, and he gets along with other cats too. Keep up with this sweet boy on Instagram @kitcatbnb!
