Poor little LACY is so scared here. She's been at the shelter since early December and really needs a patient adopter to get her out of this scary place and into a home where she can relax. While LACY hides, it's easy to pull her out of her kennel and hold her in your lap. She enjoys petting and needs time to warm up in the right environment. This pretty girl is unknown around other cats, dogs and children, and really just needs a patient owner to give her a break.
