

DESPERATE HOUSECAT SCOUT 20674

SCOUT is a hoot and a half! She LOVES people, but can get overstimulated and give luv nips (they can be very hard), so she needs a very experienced cat adopter. She was brought to AAS because her owner's son was allergic. SCOUT doesn't like other pets, which made her home life rather challenging. She spent some time in a foster home, so we know that SCOUT is very social. Besides being an expert at locating the coziest hiding spots for a deep sleep, she also has a fun, energetic side that comes out during her nightly zoomies. She is very playful, showing enthusiasm for every toy she finds and excitement for any treat offered to her. She also likes being brushed, and can be picked up and held. SCOUT will chirp out for pets, meet your hand with her head, and really knows how to enjoy a snack. She's a lap cat, and enjoys looking out windows at the outside world. Being in a kennel is no fun when you are energetic and don't like other cats. We really want to see SCOUT out of the shelter, either through adoption or foster.
